

Harvard University and the Catholic University of America

Present

Faith and Flourishing: Strategies for Preventing and Healing Child Sexual Abuse
Interreligious, Interdisciplinary
Virtual Symposium

April 8 – 10

Registration is Free and Open to the Public

<https://hfh.fas.harvard.edu/Faith-Flourishing-Symposium-On-Child-Abuse>

With a Key Note Address by the
Rev. Dr. Denis Mukwege,
2018 Nobel Peace Prize Laureate

About the Symposium

This landmark symposium is a marquee event for the April 8 World Day for Child Sexual Abuse Prevention, Healing and Justice. This event provides participants with a unique opportunity to engage with scholars, public health and mental health care professionals, child abuse prevention experts, and religious leaders of diverse faith traditions to share experiences, discover new resources and identify strategies they can implement to prevent child sexual abuse and foster healing for survivors of abuse in their communities.

Program Overview

- Live Zoom discussion session one-hour per day to network with other participants from your region to identify strategies your community and organization can take to prevent child sexual abuse and promote healing.
- A series of on-demand video presentations from faith leaders, scholars, theologians, and leading experts in the field of child sexual abuse prevention, healing, and justice
- Access to evidence-informed tools, trainings, and publications, and view examples of healing and prevention programs in action around the world.

Who Should Attend

- Religious Leaders
- Pastors, Clergy, Persons Religious
- Lay Leaders in the Faith Community
- Missionaries
- Victims Assistant Counselors
- Public Health Professionals
- Pediatricians & Pediatric Nurses
- Mental Health Providers
- Child Welfare Advocates
- Policy Makers
- Social Workers
- Criminal Justice Professionals

Symposium Partners

